The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, 13TH AUGUST, 1864.

THE Christy Minstrels will give their seventh concert this evening. After the fatigues and anxieties attending the despatch of the last mail, it really will be unqualified recreation to enjoy an hour or two's laughter with the Minstrels. The harmony of their choruses, and the absurdity of their burlesques, combine with their comic and sentimental songs, and their nigger dialogues, to form a pleasing variety which vastly enhances the charm of their representations.

To-night's performance is given under the patronage of the Parsee community. We understand that nearly all the ladies in the Colony are "engaged" to go. The programme appears even more racy than usual.

Under the proper heading will be found a letter from Capt. Kessall, of the Hamburg ship Malpina Vidal. It appears that whilst on his passage from this place to Whampoa, he got ashore on Lintin, H.C.M.S. Narvaez passing at the time, bound to Canton, rendered all possible assistance, and overwhelmed Capt. Kessall completely, by refusing to take a stiver for the boon conferred. A small cumshaw for the steamer's crew, from Capt. Kessall, subject to the approval of the gallant commander of the Narvaez would not be out of place we should think however.

We sadly fear that the new Hongkong Bank is not being properly started. We understand that the Provisional Committee have determined upon having a Secretary on a salary of $1,000 per annum, and that a gallant officer of the garrison stands a good chance of obtaining the appointment. We really hope that this is not true. It is absurd for the committee to suppose that they can secure on the spot the talent they require. Whether a Secretary be necessary or not, we do not pretend to judge. If he be, we quite agree with the policy of giving him a good salary, but let a man be secured who is up to the work, and who will not have to be dry-nursed. A man well up to the law and to the forms of banking—capable of writing reports and comprehending their drift—a man of experience and of tact is in fact the sort of person wanted, who knows the ins and outs of all the leading banking establishments in the world, and who can keep the committee and the shareholders together on the trams. Plenty of such men can be had in London, and there application should be made.

In the same manner we learn that the talent of the colony is to be drafted on for a manager. We do not suppose that any of the gentlemen who form the provisional committee over previously occupied such a position previously. Still they surely must understand the necessity of selecting as a manager a man whose experience and capacity for the business of banking will command respect, and whose position will reflect credit and add weight to the undertaking. If what we learn be true, the nominations are to be confined to a clique or a coterie whose public spirit has ever been at a severe discount, and whose claims on the public confidence are far from being generally admitted.

We believe that 5,700 shares have been applied for by the community of this place, but we are aware that several parties hesitate to take shares until they see the nominations more judiciously disposed of.

THERE is something intensely melancholy in the terrible disaster which has overtaken the Genenbr, family). It appears that the Revd. F. Genaehr, of the Rhenish Missionary Society, has been dwelling with his family, consisting of a wife and five children, for some little time at a place called Ho-an, about fifty English miles hence. It was only on the 21st ulto. that Mr. Genaehr was delivered of a son. Cholera appears to be raging dreadfully at Ho-an amongst the Chinese, and but for considerations of duty Mr. Genaehr would doubtless have removed.

On Sunday, last, the 7th inst. the father and eldest son were attacked with this dreadful scourge. The boy died at 5 P.M. the father two hours after. On Tuesday the 9th inst. the second son was attacked, and followed his father and brother.

The poor widow was cut off from all communication with Europeans, and the Chinese were so terrified that they could not be induced to render the smallest assistance in the interment of the bodies. The intelligence reaching the next station, a German missionary set out with twenty converts and did all that could be done.

By last advices a third son had been attacked and was not expected to live. The heroism of the poor widow, bereft of all aid whatever, guarding her infant family and the corpses of her husband and eldest boys, is indeed a picture which should excite admiration and pity in a stoic.

Letter to the Editor.

To the Editor of the Daily Press.

DEAR SIR,—I think it my duty to bring to public notice the kind manner in which I was treated by the Commander of the Spanish steamer Narvaez whilst on shore with my ship off Sintin. The steamer not only remained with me during the whole 24 hours that my ship was in this position but tried several times to tow me off, and succeeded in doing so at last after a great deal of trouble, both to Captain, officers and crew. After the ship was in safety I repaired on board to enquire what I was to make for recompense for all this, and the greatest surprise was told nothing, and that it had been done with pleasure.

I therefore take this opportunity in thanking the commander of the Navaez publicly for the very courteous and kind behaviour towards me and the assistance he rendered to my ship in getting her out of her perilous position.

I remain dear Sir,
Your obedient servant,
T. L. KESSALL.
Master of the Hamburg ship "Malvina Vidal."

HANKOW.

July, 1864.

SIR,—There is little to report from this. The hot weather has put an end to all movements of troops; the Viceroy is still however in camp some forty miles off,—and if under canvass he must find it much warmer work than fighting Rebels: for we foreigners in our palatial residences palaces built for the trade that is some day to come—find the thermometer standing at 102 in the day, while the other night as late as 8 P.M. it was 94, and at 5 A.M. the following morning 91. This is probably the greatest heat ever suffered at any of the ports.

There has been no rain for near 40 days and the people are anxiously calling upon their gods and offering sacrifices to their "Bad," who heeds not their cries for rain.

Of course the Tea Crop suffers as it always does (by teamen's reports) from any style of weather. The third Crop is said never to have sprouted, the trees, refusing to give out their leaves without rain. This is not however the cause that our market was found with only 4 chops in it a few days ago! No—the arrival of the steamer of one of our "most enterprising firms" with the news that exchange had dropped 1*d* with you, sent many madly into Tea who felt aggrieved that such a noble article should be allowed to remain so near the equivalent of little more than 1*d.* or 2*d.*; they therefore cleared the market at 2 Tls. advance on the equivalent of 3*d.* over home rates. They are possibly right too, for your market appeared also cleared, and naturally the Shanghai merchants will wish to be supplied again at the same Tael cost in Shanghai that was paid in Hankow.

The Import trade continues to suffer from the exactions of Compradores and the credit system. These distinguished servants who receive a salary still obtain their 3 per cent on sales—a rather fine profit on a transaction that takes 10 days. The credit system; but I need not enlarge on it—all know its evils but one firm. Cotton is being grown very abundantly in the plains both above and below this, and the Crop will be larger than for years, if rain will come in about ten days. Hemp enough and to spare is being sent down for all your Rowdies; it is of fine quality this season. It is a pity this Hemp, or properly speaking Grass, cannot be more largely adopted in France and England; it would be such fine freight for ships. I remember it was a "hope" when first I came here, but down it went soon after the opening of the Port; since then it has been found very suitable for certain manufactures, which are however somewhat carefully hidden.

Freights to Shanghai have been as low as Taels 1½ offered, although it is maintained only Taels 2 has been taken. It is feared the S. S. N. Company must find it unprofitable, and that unless the vessels are more economically worked, and the Engineers given less latitude with the bouteilles of the Company as also with the Coals, the Company will find itself coming under that causes of its "dead of settlement," which provides for 10 per cent losses.

This river is evidently worked as now. Many do much for many drinks to called its favour and down with the per cent discount here.

The Defence battlements are The United States investigating the pro Consul, with whom reported, refuse to his. The English Consul unfortunate as much can ling of the Bund. Mission flourishing as much as could native character seems particularly advantage is apparent, and the teachers display no particular scientific acquirements to arrest their attention. The weather is also much against muscular Christianity.

The Catholic seminary at Woosung has been enlarged, assisted materially by the contributions of the residents on this side; the Bishop is away visiting his district.

Some Rebel disturbances are reported in Honan, but here the most loyal of the Provinces.

I should not omit to mention the efforts being made to discover either Gold or Coal, some fifty miles up the river from this. Under direction from two influential Merchants here, it is reported a gentleman is engaged boring, and that already he has obtained a depth of 80 or 100 feet. It is to be hoped the result may be made public. Much better Coals are to be obtained in Hankow now than formerly, and it may be assumed that they will come into more general use for steamers.

I have in this letter lightly touched on most of interest at the Port,—matters I have in former letters commented upon, as from "urgent private affairs," I may not be able to address you again for some months.

NEW MEDICINE!

THE GREATEST SUCCESS OF THE AGE!!!

NO MORE COD-LIVER OIL. SYRUP OF IODIZED HORSE-RADISH of GRIMAULT and Co., Apothecaries and chemists, 7, Rue de la Feuillade, Paris. According to the certificates of the physicians of the Paris Hospitals, detailed in the prospectus, and with the approbation of several Academies, this Syrup is employed with the greatest success in place of Cod-liver Oil, to which it is really superior. It cures diseases of the chest, scrofula, lymphatic disorders, green sickness, muscular atony, and loss of appetite, it regenerates the constitution by purifying the Blood, and is, in a word the most powerful depurative known. It never fatigues the stomach and bowels like the iodide of potassium and the iodide of iron, and is administered with the greatest efficacy to young children subject to humours, or obstruction of the glands. DR. CAZENAVE, of Saint Louis hospital, Paris, recommends it particularly in cutaneous diseases conjointly with the dilla which bear his name.

PHOSPHATE OF IRON, DE LERAS, apothecary, doctor of science, 7, Rue de la Feuillade, Paris.—This new ferruginous medicine contains the elements of the bones and blood, and iron in a liquid state. From observations made in the Hôtel hospitals and detailed in the prospectus, it is superior to ferruginous pills, lactate of iron, iron reduced by hydrogen, pills and syrups of the iodide of iron, and cures rapidly, stomach complaints, painful digestion, poverty of the blood, paleness of strength and appetite, and the diseases incident to females. It is the best adjunct to COD-LIVER OIL, and the best preserver health in tropical climates.

ELIXIR OF PEPSINE prepared by GRIMAULT and Co., chemists, 7, Rue de la Feuillade, Paris, according to the formula of DR. CORVISART, knight of the Legion of Honour, physician to H.M. the Emperor of the French. PEPSINE is the gastric juice itself, or rather the digestive principle purified, which digests food in the stomach. When from various causes the supply of the digestive fluid is too small, the inevitable consequences are bad digestion, gastritis, gastralgia, inflammation of the mucous coats of the stomach and bowels, heartburn, anæmia, loss of strength, and in females, general derangement. The elixir of Pepsine, which is sanctioned by the approbation of the Paris Academy of Medicine, speedily cures all such diseases, and prevents vomiting during pregnancy.

ATTENTION!!

AFTER having come to my knowledge through a letter I have just received from Whampoa, that there are at present at that place certain Chinese dressed in European costume, who are said to be kidnapping their countrymen as coolies for the Macao barracoons, using my name as the party for whose account the traffic is being carried on, I deem it my duty to make it known that I have no connection either direct or indirect with these men nor with such others that may use my name as the party therein interested, for as it is quite notorious, I never have taken an interest in the Coolie trade as being entirely opposed to my principle.

I have also to add that the most effective means have been adopted for the apprehension and conviction of the culprits.

NEW AND INFALLIBLE METHOD.

Treatment instantaneous and radical cure of Corns and other excrescences of the Feet.

BY M. J. DEFRIES,
Chiropedist of the Imperial Houses of France and Brazil.

Having arrived on a professional visit to this Colony, can be consulted every day, between the hours of 10 A.M. and 4 P.M., at the "HOTEL D'EUROPE."

Where patients will be treated in a private apartment.

Through the means of a new process, Mr. Defries expels the corn from the feet, as also any excrescences on the soles of the feet, without cutting them or in any way puncturing the flesh. He possesses an Elixir of his own invention, which stands prominent in its efficacy for curing corns even should they have suppurated.

Mr. Defries operates without causing the smallest pain to the patient, who on the completion of the operation can wear a tight shoe without special inconvenience to the spot whence the corn may have been extracted.

Mr. Defries possesses a vast number of testimonials of the highest class, which are at the service of the public for inspection. He begs that his method may not be confused with that of other Chiropodists. His stay here will be only one month, and he will attend with that of patients who may require his professional services.

PENINSULAR & ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASSAGE MONEY.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a considerable reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861.

In that year, owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force. They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undernoted scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:—

Little Johnny's Catechism.

(From the Owl.)

Britannia. Can you tell me, child, what you are?

Little Johnny: I am a very small member of a very weak cabinet, in a very great country.

Britannia: How do you account for having become this member?

Little Johnny: By reason of the name which I inherited from my fathers and my grandfathers at my birth.

Britannia: Did they give you anything else at your birth which should fit you for your present post?

Little Johnny: Yes; the talent of sacrificing everything to keep in, and of providing for all my relations and friends.

Britannia: Have you any other higher duties?

Little Johnny: No.

Britannia: Oh, poor Johnny! how sadly you have been neglected. Tell me, child, how did you expect to keep in office?

Little Johnny: By preserving Denmark and keeping the peace.

Britannia: And what have you done?

Little Johnny: Dismembered Denmark, and involved this country in war.

Britannia: And will this keep you in office?

Little Johnny: No; how-how—it will turn me out.

Britannia: Who hates you more than the Germans?

Little Johnny: The Danes.

Britannia: Who laughs at you more than Bismark?

Little Johnny: The Emperor of the French.

Britannia: If you go war without him, what will happen?

Little Johnny: We shall blockade all the German ports, and keep our own commerce, and everything will go into Germany through France, and American ourtoms, under the German flag will destroy our commerce, and the French will carry the trade of the world and get the Rhine provinces, and we shall probably go to war with the United States, and we shall not be able to send enough troops to turn the Germans out of Denmark—so that the war cannot be a success, and (if it is successful) be worse than failure.

Britannia: Naughty boy; did you see all this at the beginning?

Little Johnny: No; I never could see very far ahead.

Britannia: Well you have got matters into a great mess; but pay attention. You want to revenge your self on Prussia?

Little Johnny: Oh! yes.

Britannia: And you think you can do it by going to war against Germany?

Little Johnny: Yes.

Britannia: Silly child. Do you know that the Emperor will not go with you unless you separate Federal Germany from despotic Prussia; that Bismark wants to see Hamburg blockaded by English ships; that to fight against the principle of nationality in Holstein makes the co-operation of the Napoleon impossible? But you can support independent Holstein and Germany against the tyranny of Prussia, and get the Emperor to assist you against Prussia, and get a better line for the Danes, besides humbling Prussia. My dear boy, I know German politics are rather difficult to understand, but before going to war, you really must have a clear idea of who is your enemy, and how you can most damage him. If you go to war with Germany, you fight against your best ally in England, it will be ruinous, and that will destroy if you go to war for Germany, you will destroy Prussia and get far better terms in the end for Denmark. If you had only asked somebody who knew about it at the beginning, you might have saved yourself this lesson, which will make everybody laugh at you.

The Telegraph Round the Globe.

The proposed Inter-Continental Telegraph which, via Behring's Straits, will complete the circuit of the world, was recently the subject of discussion in the New York Chamber of Commerce. It appears that Russia has undertaken a line of 6,000 miles, from Moscow to the Pacific Ocean, at the mouth of Amoor, of which 1,000 miles from Moscow to Irkutsk are in operation, and that she has granted to Mr. F. M. Collins, of New York, a concession for 33 years to extend this line up to and across Behring's Straits, and thence through her American territories to the frontier of the British possessions, a distance in all of 1,500 miles; that the British Government have granted a similar privilege down the northern frontier of the United States, and that an application is now pending in the Washington Congress for like permission through that country, thus connecting the whole telegraphic system of Europe and Asia with the telegraphic system of America. The Chamber unanimously resolved to memorialise the President and both Houses of Congress in favour of the undertaking. The full completion of the project may, it is alleged, be expected within three years. The total distance overland by way of Behring's Straits, which is only 39 miles wide and 160 feet in depth, will be about 15,000 miles, and it is ascertained that messages have been repeatedly sent during the present year from Boston to San Francisco, a distance of 3,000 miles, in two minutes. Times.

Poland.

The following letter, bearing on the altered conduct of Austria, has been addressed to The Times:—

Sir,—As Count Stanislas Tarnowski has many friends in England I trust you will give insertion to the following extract from a private letter describing the doom to which he has just been condemned by the Austrian Government:—

"Stanislas Tarnowski was thrown into prison at Cracow in September last, and now, after having been tried according to the new and exceptionally rigorous code introduced by the state of siege in Galicia last February, for an offence committed five months before, he has been sentenced to 12 years' confinement in chains in a solitary cell. His only crime was patriotism, and he has been punished by the Austrian Government, not for any treason against Austria, but simply because he assisted his countrymen in the insurrection against Russia."

I may mention that when I was in Cracow in November last I endeavoured to see Count Tarnowski, with whom I had previously been well acquainted, but not only was I refused admittance to his cell, but even his brother and the family physician were prevented from seeing him, although he was suffering from severe illness at the time.—I remain, sir your's obediently,

June 25 LAURENCE OLIPHANT.

The Tactics of the Opposition.

The weakness of the Government is so apparent, and produces so much confusion in the transactions of the ordinary business of Parliament, that the Opposition naturally asks with eagerness whether the time is not come to make a great effort for place and power. There can be no doubt that the country is suffering from the inability of the Government to devise and carry out a definite policy. It is not only that a cloud rests over all our foreign relations, and that we spend week after week of uncertainty whether war may not end the negotiations on which we have wasted so many well-meant endeavours for half a year, but there is nothing done at home. The Government have no measures of its own, it cannot unanimously carry the measures of its independent members whom it supports, and it cannot shape the course and economise the time of Parliament so as to afford a proper opportunity for the passing of measures of real importance. It is only the personal reputation of the leaders of the Cabinet, and a sense that it has done some things well in former Sessions, that saves the Government from sinking into a position like that which was held by the Melbourne Ministry in the last years of its existence. Lord Palmerston has not quite reached that level of humiliation at which the head of the Government is treated with a patronizing sentiment by the local Opposition. But this is principally because he is Lord Palmerston, and because his chief opponent is not Sir Robert Peel, but Mr. Disraeli. In every step the Ministry takes, in its whole attitude to the country and the House, there is felt the want of a strong and a guiding hand. Lord Palmerston has gained much experience, he is more moderate and farsighted than he was twenty years ago, but it is impossible to believe that the Danish business would lie in the state in which it is now if the diplomatists of Europe had had to do with the Palmerston of 1841. But a country cannot for ever retain its statesmen in the prime of their days, and the nation has shown beyond question that it thinks the qualities which the Premier has certainly gained more than compensate for those which he may possibly have lost. England is the most faithful of all nations to its political favourites, and when it has once given its esteem and confidence it is very slow to withdraw them. It would be very untrue to say that the country is bired of Lord Palmerston, or wishes to get rid of him. But there is a general feeling that the position which Lord Palmerston now holds is not the proper position for him, and one that becomes his reputation or is on a level with the expectations of his countrymen. It was hoped that, whatever other shortcomings he might display, he would at least be free from the indecision which leaves the country and the House of Commons without the rules that both need. Long-suffering as England is, and steadfast in its admiration of the man it once raises to eminence, it cannot be expected that Lord Palmerston could go through another Session like the present and not throw something of a shadow over the brightness of his fame.

The remedy which the Opposition suggests for the evils to which the weakness of the Ministry gives rise is that which naturally occurs to the minds of men who have been five years out of office. It is a simple one, and consists in the formation of a Derby Cabinet. And, in order that this remedy may be applied, it is said that a great party attack will be made within a few days. But the Opposition is under the great difficulty that it can scarcely find any plausible ground of attack. Nominally, perhaps the subject of attack will be the mode in which the Danish negotiations have been conducted. There has been much in the policy of the Ministry that has given an opening for hostilities. Lord Russell has made mistakes which, even for him, are glaring and serious; and partly from the conflicting influence to which the Cabinet has been subjected, partly from the want of a leading mind in the Cabinet, there has been a great want of dignity and resolution in the attitude of the Ministry. But, in order to render the mistakes in the Ministerial policy the basis of a change of Government, the House and the country must be convinced either that the main policy of the Government has been wrong, or that there are persons who, if in office, would have managed the matter better, although their policy might have been substantially the same. Apparently the Opposition has no intention of advocating a policy of its own. The time has gone by when a policy of war might have been opposed to a policy of peace. The country has pronounced unmistakably against making war in order to force the Germans of Schleswig to live under the rule of Denmark. It is true that this is exactly the result that a great statesman might have foreseen, and it is because the Ministry did not adopt any straightforward, intelligible, defensible policy from the outset, that it has laid itself open to reproach for its weakness and vacillation.

By the time that the necessity of conceding something to Germany became apparent to the Ministry, it became apparent to the Opposition also, and peace was the watchword of the enemies as well as of the supporters of the Government. If the Opposition is content to acknowledge this, and to maintain that, although to follow a peaceful policy was right, the Ministry followed a peaceful policy in a wrong way, it will be necessary to show that there is a reasonable probability that the leaders of the Opposition would, if in office, have done better and made fewer mistakes. This can only be shown by persuading the public mind that the Cabinet which Lord Derby could form would be abler, firmer, cleverer, and more experienced in foreign affairs than the existing Cabinet, or by fastening on a special blot in the Ministerial case, and giving reason to suppose that the Opposition would be clear from it. The Opposition can scarcely hope to instil any very wide belief, among dispassionate observers, in the superior wisdom and tact of a Conservative Foreign Secretary. But it might be possible to show that a particular fault committed by the Ministry would not be committed by their opponents. If the Conservative newspapers furnish any guide, this is to be the line taken by the Opposition. England, it will be said, has lost her position lately, and has been snubbed and disregarded because she has not acted cordially with France. The EMPEROR will not forgive the refusal of the Congress, and as long as the present Ministry lasts, harmonious action with France is impossible. The great thing, therefore, is to change the Ministry, the EMPEROR will be on the best of terms with the Conservatives, and all will then be well. No one can say that, if this is the issue raised by the Opposition, it will not be distinct and intelligible. England is to be asked whether she would not like a Ministry on which the EMPEROR would smile kindly, and if the answer is as the Opposition expects, then the Conservatives will take office as the good and true friends of LOUIS NAPOLEON.

It must be remembered that the great cause of quarrel between the EMPEROR and the present Ministry is supposed to be the refusal by the latter to send a representative of England to the Congress. But the Opposition has never made
